Ron Humphries, Landscape painter

Ron lives near Tenbury Wells in Worcestershire. He studied Graphic Design in the swinging sixties and eventually built up a successful business partnership with a fellow student producing illustrations and graphic design work for a variety of industries, ranging from travel to the NHS.

Ron has taken early retirement to concentrate on his first love, landscape painting. He has been painting professionally for the last fifteen years with increasing recognition. He has exhibited at the London Mall Galleries and was featured in the Daily Mail weekend supplement in a campaign to promote traditional values in contemporary painting.

Ron's work is available through various UK galleries, internationally through Saatchi, New York,
